

Ricky

Opportunity came knocking when Ricky needed it most.

The recent college graduate, husband and father of four needed a stable job. While he was employed with irregular hours part-time at a local supply store, the economy was hurting business. Ricky was in danger of losing his job and his home.

The ARRA program created an opportunity for Ricky to find economic security. A hard worker, he just needed someone to believe in him—giving him the chance to utilize his skills, build his experience and give him that extra edge in the workforce.

CADC's ARRA program improves Ricky's chances of success. As a computer software technician, Ricky now has regular work schedule, helping him maintain a stable home life. His job offers health and dental benefits.

Ricky believes in taking full advantage of this opportunity. He feels that the job he has will help him with future endeavors, not only for himself, but for his family too.
